all rates under Federal as well as fer private control will probably nain unchallenged, following yeserday's decision of the commission in the Willamette Valley lumber case, according to those who are in touch with Rallroad Administration policies. In this case, involving rates on for it products from Willamette Valley bints in Oregon eastward to mid-rest points, the question of final au-sority in rate making and fixing berates involved. The comwas in no wise interfered with by the subsequent laws providing for Federa control and that final authorin the matter of rates still rests

Commission's Findings.

Attorneys for both the Raliroad Administration and the railroads maintained that the rates prescribed by Director General McAdoo, when he ordered a horizontal 25 per cent increase, could not be upset by the rommission, but the commission
